

do mean to ignore the fact which all these gentlemen from the frontiers testify to, that there is collision. That is so undoubtedly. Are we ignorant of the fact that we are spreading our population now right in contact with these Indians? And are we ignorant of the fact that there is an utter disregard of the rights of these Indians under the treaty stipulations you have made with them? Is there an Indian reservation in Kansas or Nebraska, where the Government has been invested with the title, and the rights of the Indians reside as if there were no treaty stipulations? Everybody that knows anything about Indian affairs knows that is true everywhere. You make treaties with the Indians; you put them in reservations; you settle your populations; and the more you advance and come in contact with them the more the oppression boldly increases, and then comes collision, and then the savages show their character, and then treaties are made to push him farther away.

But, sir, in all this country which is covered by the order of General Sherman, there are no treaties between the United States and the Indians—if there is any such thing as securing it, and if we go upon the theory that the Indians are not a nation, we cannot deal with them, those treaties are to be abolished. They are entitled to that country by the same right that we are entitled to it. General Sherman supercedes those treaty stipulations in every instance. If they were independent nations, we would have to make a treaty with them, of course it would cause a war. They are not a nation, and we have no cause to deal with the civilized nations of the earth.

I will not vote a dollar to prosecute a war against the Indians, and I will not believe or believe on the subject, do not believe if necessary. Whatever is necessary for the good of the country, I will support. The aggressions of these tribes in their infuriated condition, growing out, as the evidence is before me, from the wrongs done to them, are entitled to be met. If General Sherman and his associates are right, and they have not sufficient force for the purpose, I will not vote a let them say it, and I shall be very glad to vote the means, both men and money, to enable them to defend the frontiers and the people of the frontiers against the savage hordes. But, sir, I am not willing, while the record stands as I say it does, to authorize a war of extermination, a war for the scalps of these people. I do not believe in it. Let us perform our treaty stipulations; let us do our whole duty to these Indians; and then it will be time enough for us to talk about extermination.

Varieties.

—The New Orleans Tribune calls for the election of a colored mayor and colored members of the city council, in order to secure the opening of the public schools to the children of the freedmen. It is now five years since the New Orleans first came under the control of abolitionist rulers, yet nothing has been done to remove this odious discrimination against the rights of the colored people.

—Thus far three newsboys and a broken-down lawyer have been recruited in New York for the filibustering expedition against Mexico.

—As a well-dressed gentleman was passing through a New York Park, a few days ago puffing a freshly-lighted cigar, he was accosted by a ragged urchin, who desired a light for a well-chewed and burned "bunt." The gen-

Human stood, passing the cigar to the boy who lighted his relic, and quietly handing the latter to the gentleman, made off with the good cigar.

—Mr. Andrew of Massachusetts is talked of in Washington for the responsible post of Minister to Mexico. His nomination is favored by leading Republicans.

—President Anderson, of Rochester University, gave as one reason for declining the Presidency of Brown University: "I felt that those who had invested in me when I was comparatively worthless had a right to the benefit of any rise in the stock."

—The New York World professes to discern a connection between the facts that James Gordon Bennett is growing obese, and that the Herald is urging the widening of Hall-Gate.

—The Temperance movement in Maryland is rapidly on the increase, and from all sections of the State advices are being received of the formation of Societies, Divisions and Lodges. These associations are all expected to be represented in the General State Convention which assembles in Baltimore August 28, and it is expected that that body will be composed of some of the very best men in the State.

—The surveyors of the Portland and Ogdensburg road are now at work in Danville.

—The New Orleans Tribune publishes a list of the creditors of Jacob Barker, of Louisiana, who has been adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition. The list, giving a line to each creditor, fills three columns of the Tribune, the debts ranging all the way from one dollar to ten thousand.

—The "Logan Reporter," a paper published in Stockton by the Logan Lodge of Good Templars, justifies the vote of Stockton and of Waldo County against the amendments to the

—What brought you to prison, my colored friend? "Two constables, sah." "Yes, but it mean had interference anything to do with it?" "Yes, sah, dey was bofe of 'em drunk."

—One of Lamb's best things was his reply to a French infidel, who presumed in his presence to set up the character of Voltaire in opposition to that of Christ. "Yes," stammered Lamb, "Voltaire was a very good Jesus Christ—for the F-F-F-French!"

—Tom Hood said, there is no man in Ger-

—The Rhensish provinces of Prussia are in a ferment over a recent act of M. Bismarck. In the interest of the Prussian treasury, the minister declared the sale of tobacco in these provinces a government monopoly. As this would deprive many families of their livelihood, a great commotion has been excited. It is thought that the offensive measure will be promptly rescinded.

shocked to hear you singing "Pop goes the Weasel" in church." Charlie—"Well, mamma, I saw everybody was singing—and that was the only tune I knew."

—The phrase "bottled up" is found in Carlyle's life of Frederick the Great. In vol. 5, page 220, the author says: "Lewald was finishing with the Swedes—had got them all bottled up in Stralsund."

—An interesting experiment in the new application of motive power to steam vessels has just been tried at Troy, by means of a small propeller constructed for the purpose. The improvement consists in quadrupling the number of screws—that is, instead of working with a boat with a single screw at the stern, two screws are applied at either end of extra keels, which are set on both sides of the bottom, and directly under the craft. It is claimed that a very great increase of speed is gained by this new arrangement. The inventor, a Mr. Arnold, has been eleven years, it is said, perfecting this improvement.

—Major Rathbone, of the United States Army, and Miss Clara Harris, daughter of Hon. Ira Harris, were married in Albany on Wednesday. Chief Justice Chase was present.—Both bride and groom were with President Lincoln's party in the private box at Ford's Theatre on that fatal night of April, now so tragically historic. The bride is the daughter of Judge Harris by his first wife, and Major Rathbone is the son of Mrs. Harris by her first husband.

—A very singular consequence of superstition is recorded in a recent Paris paper. It appears that the Paris Omnibus Company find their receipts sensibly diminished on Fridays, owing to the popular superstition of its being an unlucky day for travelling. The average difference between the numbers carried on other days and those on Fridays is no less than twenty-five thousand in favor of the lucky —An exchange reckons that since the seat of government was established on the Potomac there have been started and perished in the District of Columbia, no less than one hundred newspapers. The names of the papers now published there are as follows: The Daily Globe, the National Intelligencer, Chronicle, the Express, the Star, the Constitutional Union, the Times, Republican and the Georgetown Courier.

—Chattanooga was visited by a thunder storm on the 14th ult. An old darkey forgetting that "Chattanooga was taken," shouted, "Pore de Lor'dare comes 'ole craken" wid de —An accordeon race is advertised to come off in Hartford soon. George H. Grimes and Ferdinand Woffler are to play at each other on that dulcet instrument till one "ceaves."

—Among the conundrums for Sunday, in circulation, is the following: Why do we know that Pharoah was a carpenter? Because he made Joseph a ruler.

—A snake about fourteen inches long, of the copperhead species, was found in a bunch of bannas one day this week in Providence.

The latest invention of fashionable "charity" comes to us from the "Mother Country." Senator Stanford in an English paper has discovered that it would be a labor-saving charity to issue "tickets of baptism" to the poor of the district, in the same manner as soup, bread and coal tickets have hitherto been dispensed, and this addition has accordingly been adopted.

Gen. Rousevell is to go to Alaska as United States Commissioner to take possession and to assist the staves and stripes. Ex-Senator Clark of California and Ex-Senator McDougall of California are candidates for the Governorship, but it is not probable that either of them, if appointed, would be confirmed.

There is a revival of Mormon emigration from Europe. A steamer sailed from Liverpool on a fortnight since, with four hundred converts on board, bound to Salt Lake City. "There was about an equal proportion men and women among them," says a Briton, "the principal part of whom were English, perhaps ranging from eighteen to twenty-five years of age. The converts belonged to Wales, the western counties of England, and some came from Scotland, but there was not a single Irishman or Irishwoman among them."
